NO WATER TEST YET

CITY PHYSICIAN SAYS NO EXAMINATION HAS BEEN ASKED

FACING WATER SHORTAGE

River Supply Is Inadequate, It Is Said —Sand Points May Prove Solution of the Problem

Maryville, still floundering about in muddy water, trying to get accustomed to the "dark brown" taste and making futile efforts to secure distilled water, is being forced to depend upon private cistern for drinking water, no relief being in sight from the city water department. Even with the water having been in its present condition for more than a week no steps have been taken to have a chemical analysis made to determine whether or not it contains bacteria or germs.

With no filter being available for use at the pumping station there is also the added menace of Maryville facing a water shortage this summer. For some time previous to the recent rains the water supply had been low and it has been by only extra efforts that enough has been secured to supply the demand. The rainage ditch carries off the water so fast that not enough is to be had and with summer and dry weather at hand the problem must be solved of securing an adequate supply.

City Physician L. E. Dean this morning said he had not sent specimens of the water to be chemically examined, adding that he had not been asked by the mayor or any member of the board of public works to do so. He said he believed even were it sent that nothing but mud would be found in it.

An experiment made by Manager Dusenberry of the water department a few weeks ago demonstrated that at least one-half the supply of water needed for the city might be obtained from sand points, as with a small gas engine thirty-six gallons per minute was pumped from one point, causing a lowering of the water of five feet within a twenty-four hour period. Manager Dusenberry estimated that equipment could be installed to pump from the sand at an expense of approximately $1,200 or $1,500.

In speaking of the old unused filter, Mr. Dusenberry said that when he discovere dthat it was out of repair and badly broken that new parts were ordered. Sand and gravel has been received but the parts ordered in January are not here. It is learned the filter has been out of use for the past fifteen months or more.

With it being undetermined whether the city water contains other impurities than mud and suspended organic matter and with hot weather and an inadequate water supply in prospect the health of the city is in danger of an epidemic of typhoid and other diseases.

GETS TERM AT HARD LABOR

Hugh Kelly, an East End Resident, Is Sentenced to Work On Streets For Choking His Wife

Hugh Kelly, a resident of the east part of town, has a habit that led to his being forced to serve three months at hard labor on the streets. Late Saturday evening Kelly went home in a peeved condition of mind and not being able to rid himself of his grouch proceeded to chastise his better half, beating and choking her until she retaliated with a good stout club, after which she called the police. When officers of the law arrived Kelly had gone and a search found him hiding out in Harrison's pasture.

He was brought to the city jail by Marshal Edwards and yesterday morning Mayor W. O. Garrett heard the story, as did also a jury of six citizens. The verdict was a fine of $1 and costs amounting to $25.40 and to labor on the streets for a term of three months.

Kelly is an old offender, but this is the first time he has paid so severe a penalty.

Mrs. Kelly filed suit for divorce this morning, charging cruelty, abuse, neglect and that her husband was a vagrant. She asks the custody of their four children, the oldest of which is thirteen years old.

ORDER NUMBER OF DRAFT MEN

Letter In Classification Has Nothing to Do With Order In Which Registrants May Be Called

Men in the selective service are advised by the draft board that the letter in their classification has nothing to do with the order in which they may be called. It is the belief of many of the men that all the men in Class A-1 must be exhausted before others will be called. Such is not the case, for men in other subdivisions of the first class are subject to call the same as Class A-1, the letter having nothing to do with it whatever, only the order number of the registrant being taken into consideration.

SCOUTS BENEFIT PLAY FINE

"The Man From Montana," Given on Wednesday Night Was Greatly Enjoyed — Specialties a Hit

A good sized audience saw one of the best plays ever given by local talent at the Empire theatre Wednesday night when "The Man From Montana" was presented for the benefit of the Boy Scouts. A western comedy drama full of fun and dramatic situation, the company gave a finished performance, better than most road companies that visit this section. Splendid work was done by every member of the cast which included Miss Helen Tobn, Miss Agatha Henggeler, John Thompson, Noah Thompson, Paul Buhler, Henry Seipel, John Gross and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Alderman, the play being under the direction of Mr. Alderman, who, as "The Man From Montana," did some clever work with a heavy role.

Specialties between the acts were a "turn" by Carlos Yehle and Verne Robey in songs and jokes in which they made a great hit and were forced to respond to an encore. H. J. Becker, always a welcome addition to any bill, met the enMwaseshrdlu to any bill, met an enthusiastic reception.

The Boy Scouts wish to thank all who took part in the play, the proceeds from which will go towards providing troop equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Felix left Wednesday for a visit with relatives in Illinois.

A CALL FOR DOCTORS

NODAWAY COUNTY HAS NOT FINISHED ITS QUOTA YET

MEETING AT ST. JOSEPH

Physicians Eligible for Medical Reserve Corps Are Urged to Offer Their Services Without Delay

Missouri's quota of 5,000 doctors necessary to care for the new draft army have not yet been obtained and the Missouri state committee of national defense is sending out an emergency call to the various county committees throughout the state calling attention to the deficiency and pointing out the need. It is not a time for debate or question as to whether the doctors should volunteer for service; it is absolutely necessary and is a duty that must needs be done quickly.

Nodaway county has not furnished its quota. With forty-three physicians in the county, nineteen have offered their services; seven hold commissions, seven have been rejected as unfit and five are awaiting report of physical examination. This leaves twenty-seven who are yet eligible, eight of whom have not yet offered their services.

In order that the physicians of this and other northwest Missouri counties may know the great need for doctors in the service of humanity and under the colors of the United States, a meeting is announced to be held in St. Joseph, Monday, June 3, at which Dr. Jabez N. Jackson and Capt. John G. Hayden of Kansas City will go into details regarding the matter and will explain many points in which the doctors are interested. The local committee is instructed that every doctor eligible in the county be notified and urged to attend. The men named will receive applications for the Medical Reserve Corps at the meeting Monday.

HUNS HAVE TAKEN REIMS?

BELIEVED EVACUATION OF FAMOUS CITY BY FRENCH IS NOW INEVITABLE

BATTLE RAGES FIERCELY

HUNS, A MILE FROM THE MARNE RIVER, ARE PUSHING ALLIES BACK

45,000 CAPTIVES IS CLAIMED

The Struggle Is Now In the Open and Trench Warfare and Wire Entanglements No Longer a Hindrance to Either Side

London, May 31.—The Daily Sketch estimate: Today and within the next two days the newspapers said may see changes in the battle front. The Daily Chronicle said the abandonment of Rheims seemed inevitable now, and it was not improbable that it has already been carried out.

Paris, May 31.—The gigantic battle between Rheims and Soissons continues to rage unabated. The Allies are firmly holding both wings, while the Germans continue to attempt to press forward in the center. French wounded who have already begun to reach the capital express confidence in the ability of the Allies to check the German advance. The crown prince's army, they declare, is paying dearly for every foot of ground it gains.

The great battle is now entirely in the open, trench warfare having been completely abandoned, and for the time there are no more wire entanglements where the battle is taking place and consequently military men declare the loss of a few villages now is not serious.

The German war office in their official statement last night claimed to have reached and passed Fareen Tardenois. This represents an advance in the very center of the line of from four to five miles since Wednesday. The latest French war office report said the Germans had been prevented from advancing beyond Soissons, which was abandoned by the French after heavy losses had been inflicted on the, invaders. To the northwest of Rheims the Allies are also holding their positions. The Germans claim to have captured 45,000 prisoners to date.

Paris, May 31.—Foch has begun to strike gack at the Germans with vigorous blows and the French have already captured Thielors three miles northwest of Rheims. There is no lessening of the violence of the struggle.

The Germans are now about a mile from the Marne river. By striking northwest of Soissons the Germans have now extended the Aisne-Marne front until it is practically linked with the Picardy theatre of fighting. This means that the double battle line is now nearly one hundred miles long.

Paris, May 31.—The Germans have extended their efforts on the right wing of the Aisne-Marne battle field as far as the Oise river northwest of Soissons, the French war office announced today. South of Soissons the German attacks have been broken up by French resistance. The French maintain all their positions in this region. Northwest of Rheims by a brilliant counter attack the French recaptured Thildoers. In the center the Germans were able to make slight advances.

With the American Army, May 31.—The Germans are reported to be massing heavy bodies of troops opposite Cantigny which was captured by the Americans Tuesday. It is presumed the enemy is seeking to retake the village even at a heavy cost. The Americans are continually raking the German lines east of Cantigny with machine gun fire.

Berlin (via London), May 31.—"The armies of the German crown prince are progressing victoriously," says the German war office statement. North of the Aisne ground has been gained after hard fighting. Crecy-au-Mont, Juvigny and Cuffies have been occupied.

"Soissons has been taken by Brandenburg troops.

"The number of prisoners has increased to more than 35,000 and the booty in artillery and war material is tremendous.

"The forts on the northwestern front of Rheims have fallen. The northern parts of La Nouvillette and Betheny were captured. Guns of every description, up to railway guns of the heaviest caliber, were taken.

"The impetuous advance of our attacking forces prevented the enemy from carrying back rich war provisions heaped up in the captured territories; large depots fell into our hands at Soissons, Braisne and Fismes. Extensive munition depots, railway trains and hospital establishments with a large quantity of medical equipment fell into our possession. An airdrome, with machines ready to start and airplane material also were captured.

"During the last three days our aviators have brought down thirty-eight enemy airplanes south of Ypres; five enemy captive balloons were brought down in flames."

CALL 200,000 MORE

"LIMITED SERVICE" MEN TO PRODUCE ARMY EQUIPMENT

9,000 NEEDED AT ONCE

To Be Used In Getting Out Spruce to Be Made Into Airplanes—Can Volunteer Until June 6

Washington, May 31.—Two hundred thousand men of draft age, who, because of minor physical defects, have been held by examining surgeons over the country for limited military service, are to be employed in producing or handling equipment for the army, Provost Marshal General Crowder has announced that the army staff corps will utilize the service of these registrants and thus release fighting men for the front line.

General Crowder has issued the first call under the new plan. Orders went forth to governors of states for upwards of 9,000 men for service in spruce production for airplanes. The men will be allowed to volunteer until June 6. After that date a report will be made to the provost marshal general and if there are not sufficient volunteers allotments will be made to the various states to be filled by involuntary inductment.

Some 10,000 men of the army now are engaged in getting out spruce timber in the northwest and the signal corps constantly is increasing this number. Consequently the sending of the new men to this field will constitute no new policy and it is understood that it has no relation to complaints that the I. W. W. have retarded the output of spruce.

Some twenty-four trades or classes including railroad, transport and construction men, office workers and laborers are desired for the spruce division. When this division has been filled men will be called to fill other staff services of the army until the 200,000 total has been exhausted. No indication was given as to when the other calls will be made.

In a statement announcing the new plan General Crowder said the solution of the question of what to do with these men had been one of the great problems of the draft. Some of the men, it was explained, have a thumb, or toe or eye missing, but almost everyone of them is engaged in active business and thus were held to be of some use in the military establishment. After months of study it was decided to call them into the branches of the army engaged in producing equipment for the fighting men.

RED CROSS NURSES AND DOCTORS STUCK TO THEIR JOBS

IN THICK OF BATTLE

Remarkable Story of One Who Was There of American Effort and Effectiveness at Battle of Somme

(By William D. Hines)

Washington, May 31.—The story of the part America and Americans played in aiding the British and the French during the early Spring offensive of the Germans on the Somme can never be adequately told. The whole picture is too big to paint on one canvas. It is only by describing the work of individuals and particular groups of workers that some idea of the American effort and its effectiveness in this historic battle can be brought home to the people back home—and then only in a small way.

While it is perhaps only a very small incident in the history of that great affair, the story of how a small band of American Red Cross workers "carried on" at one of the evacuation hospitals back of the British front should make Americans proud. When all but a few of the hospital staff had left with the two hundred or more patients and the Germans were advancing only a few miles away, four American army surgeons assigned to the American Red Cross for work at this particular hospital, declared their intentions of "sticking till H— froze over." And six Red Cross ambulance and truck drivers, as well as several American Red Cross nurses and aides "stuck" with them.

The Americans made their decision not because of sheer bravado, but because the hospital had the opportunity of serving a few wounded soldiers from day to day—and could save their lives. And at this writing these Americans are still there, giving much needed medical attention to French and British soldiers who are brought back to this hospital because it is the nearest one back of that point of the line.

The big guns of the British and French have been planted in the rear of it—and then moved farther back. The Boche airmen come over at night. The little group of Americans have seen the troops, guns and transports go by in streams to points in the rear, but as long as the wounded are brought there, these Americans will stay.

A few hours after American Red Cross headquarters in Paris learned of the big German offensive, it dispatched eight trucks and motor cars to this hospital to aid in the evacuation of the patients. Night and day the Red Cross drivers worked bringing the wounded from the hospital to Paris, a drive of from six to eight hours, depending upon the congested condition of the roads.

When this had been accomplished the Red Cross cars went out into the surrounding country to pick up the wounded, who were attempting to walk to a hospital, and to aid the refugees straggling along the road. Besides transporting these two hundred or more wounded men to places of safety, the Red Cross cars aided 130 refugees to the railheads in three days.

But their work had only begun. Despite the evacuation of the hospital and the consequent order for more of the staff to accompany the patients to points of safety, the wounded kept coming in. Ninety per cent of them were serious cases. Practically all demanded immediate operations. Not simple operations, but major ones, where a steady nerve, delicate touch and sure hand were necessary to give the wounded the best chances for life.

Night and day the American surgeons worked. There were a few nurses to assist, but all were tired—completely fagged, mentally and physically. Every one needed rest. But there were the men coming in every few hours, their bodies pitifully torn, and suffering untold agonies. So no one thought of stopping, and even when one did get a few hours off duty there were the big guns only a few hundred feet from the hospital. They belched and roared all night.

I slept at this hospital one night—or, that is, I attempted to sleep. With several drivers I selected a bed in one of the vacated wards, a bed that had just been emptied. We collected a few blankets and tumbled in with all our clothes on—taking off one's clothes in the battle zone "isn't being done this year, you know," is the way one drived expressed it. Every few minutes the big guns would let go; the windows of the hospital, which, by the way, is one of the most picturesque and prettiest chateaux in France, and is owned by an American woman who married a French general, rattled and banged from the concussion. Between the gunfire the eccentric whir of the Boche airplanes could be heard. They were attempting to locate the battery so as to direct the fire of their artillery. So the Red Cross can't sleep—they just doze and rest.

Of course, some of the cases were hopeless and no amount of surgical skill or medical attention could save them. Here again the American Red Cross men came in for more work. They had to dig the graves and act as pallbearers.

One night was especially hard. The doctors were kept busy in the operating room until 3 o'clock in the morning. The nurses had to have a bit of rest. One nurse only was available. So again the Red Cross drivers were called upon. One became an aid to the operating surgeon remaining in service until the last wounded man was rolled finally into his bed.

That day the Boche was reported a bit nearer and the drum fire of the Allied batteries rolled through the hospital like peals of thunder. All the patients who could be removed without endangering their chances of recovery were evacuated and then the order came to take away most of the supplies. At six o'clock the Red Cross drivers were rounded out and began loading their trucks with blankets and food, which constituted the greatest part of the supplies. These were taken to a town a bit farther back where they could be used for refugees and the troops that were passing through in endless streams.

When I left the hospital the next day things had become "about normal," so a Red Cross man told me. They were only working fifteen hours a day.

FORESEES ANOTHER HUN WAR

Son of Famous Civil War General Says It Is Military Impossibility to Dismember German Empire

Seattle, Wash., May 31.—The United States must have a training school for 40,000 officers and raise an army of 20,000,000 men before the Hun can be thoroughly crushed, according to Father Thomas Ewing Sherman, son of General William T. Sherman, of Civil War fame.

"The only argument for a 15-inch gun is a 15-inch gun," declared Father Sherman, who is a Seattle visitor. "It is not a military possibility to dismember the German empire. We can drive the Germans out of France, but we cannot change the German spirit of militarism. Our next war with Germany will be over South American possessions."

The War, The Farm and The Farmer

—by Herbert Quick. Member of Federal Farm Loan Board

What the imperial German government offered the farmers of America in its ruthless submarine warfare was not the loss of profits but slavery to the saber-rattler of Potsdam. He purposed to make us slaves by murdering the people who took our products to market. By all the laws of civilized warfare commerce under a neutral flag was free from any hindrance except the legal interference justified by war. But the Germans not only stopped merchant vessels—they sank them. Sank them without warning, without trace—the most devilish thing war has ever seen since the savages scalped our ancestors and threw screaming babies into the flames of burning cabins.

The German plan of sinking merchant vessels without trace is based on the murderer's maxim that "dead men tell no tales." It was executed by the massacre of men, women and children, who, having committed themselves to small boats in the open sea after their ships were torpedoed, were mercilessly raked with gunfire and exterminated to the last unprotected, unpitied soul! These are the murders that stain the hands of the kaiser, his advisers and minions. These outrages were perpetrated on neutral vessels, when all that civilized warfare gave the Germans the right to do even with the merchant vessel under a hostile flag was to stop it at sea and make it a prize of war.

To kill the civilians on board, even under a hostile flag, was nothing but unmitigated murder. And these murders were committed in order that we might be enslaved! Having the right to take the sea with his fleet, but being afraid to do so for fear he might lose it, and being unable by fair means to stop the selling of our products to his enemies, the kaiser declared he would do it by the foulest methods ever resorted to in war. He declared the sea closed, not by war, but by murder.

To have submitted would have cost us dear in prosperity, but that would have been the least of our loss.

We should have had to grovel before the German government.

We should have had to accept murder as a thing against which we could not defend ourselves.

We should have allowed this new horror to have become a part of all future wars and have been responsible for its incorporation into international law.

We should have proved that because the fire which burns up our farms' usefulness is beyond the horizon we would submit to the kindling of it.

We might have accepted the seventy cents for wheat and the six cents for cotton, but we could not have done it merely because we were commanded to do it. By so doing we should have accepted degradation. We should have begun, after winning our freedom in our own revolution and establishing a union on the foundation of liberty in the blood and tears of our war between the states, to knuckle under to autocracy! We should have basely yielded up our birthright as Americans.

Such a thought is intolerable. Peace at such a price would not be peace, but only a preparation for a future revolt against subjugation. Better any sort of war, better war forever than that!

Whenever the time comes for new sacrifices let us remember that we fight, not for our liberties tomorrow, or next year or twenty years from now, but for our freedom today. Not for the right to live in the future, but for the right to make a living this year.

German oppression had begun to pinch us before we entered the war. If we had not declared war, but had accepted the conditions of life ordered for us by the kaiser, we should today be a poverty stricken people. Our factories would be shut down, our workmen unemployed, our people starving, our farmers ruined by the poverty of those for whose consumption they grow their crops. There is loss and sacrifice in the war, but there would have been far more of loss and sacrifice in accepting the German terms. We should have lost more in money than we have spent in the war, but we should have lost something far more precious. We should have lost our souls.

Sorghums for Deficient Stands.

A great deal of sod was broken out for corn this spring and considerable loss in stand was experienced through the ravages of wire worms and cut worms. It is not too late to plant corn again in these fields, but some are having trouble getting seed of known germinating quality. There is plenty of seed left in the district to furnish to all who have to replant.

However, should any find it impractical to plant corn in these damaged fields an excellent substitute may be found in the sorghums. Many will find that they must plant something else on a small acreage where they are having too much trouble setting a stand. It is a patriotic crop at this particular time.

Get the Weeds.

Now is the time to get the upper hand of the weeds. Thousands may be stamped out now with the same effort it will take to get a dozen later. The killing of weeds is practically the sole object of cultivation now; the conservation of moisture will be the object later.

Much time can be saved at the first and second cultivation of corn by the use of the harrow. Most of the land planted to corn this year is well prepared and in good condition. On such land the spike tooth harrow is one of the most effective implements known to kill weeds, and it can be used for all cultivation until the corn is five or six inches high.

In using a harrow give the teeth a slight backward slant to avoid injury to the small plants. Either harrow before or a few days after the corn is up. If the plants are just breaking through the ground they are likely to be damaged by the harrow.

The harrow works bet on land that is well drained and that dries out quickly after rains. One can go into a field of this kind very soon after a rain and the weeds are then destroyed before they have a chance to get a start. There are few fields in which a harrow will not be effective.

Can you wash your walls?

You have often wished that you could remove spots and stains from your wall paper. Perhaps the paper was almost new. In that case the marks must remain an eye-sore, or you must go to the expense of repapering.

We can save you all such annoyances. In place of this unsanitary wall paper, we recommend that you use

DEVOE The Guaranteed Velour Finish

It is an oil paint that gives to walls a beautiful, soft, water-color effect. If it becomes soiled, wash it with soap and water.

Besides being a thoroughly sanitary finish for your walls and ceilings, Devoe Velour Finish also offers artistic possibilities that cannot be obtained with wall paper. Also, it is more economical—lasts longer than wall paper.

We guarantee every can of Devoe we sell. Our customers tell us it gives them perfect satisfaction and that it is very easy to apply.

Be sure to ask us for the new booklet—"Harmony in the Home."

WHEATLESS BREAD RECEIPES

Tested Government Recipes Are Contained by Bulletin Sent Chairman of the Local Cooking Class

The May bulletin of the United States Food Administration sent to Miss Bertha Beal, chairman of the spring home economics course, contains a number of wheatless recipes for breads, muffins and cakes which have been tested in the experimental kitchen of the conservation division of the department of agriculture. The recipes show that a wide variety of combinations is possible even when there are only a few wheat substitutes available. In nearly all cases a combination of substitutes makes a better product than the use of only one substitute.

The following recipes for muffins make 24 small muffins each or 8 very large muffins. The general method for mixing is to add to the milk or water used, the melted fat, syrup and slightly beaten egg, sift the salt, baking powder and flour together, use a coarse seive so that no part of the flour is wasted, combine the two mixtures, stirring lightly without beating. Bake in a hot oven from 20 to 30 minutes, depending upon the size of the muffins.

Combination Muffins

50 per cent barley, 50 per cent oats
1 cup liquid.
1 tablespoon fat.
2 tablespoons syrup.
1 or two eggs.
4 tablespoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1½ cups barley flour.
1¼ cups ground oats.

The ground rolled oats are the same as rolled oats ground through a food chopper. When corn meal is used, mix—do not sift—the ingredients. Using the same ingredients as the above recipe calls for, with the flour substitutes in the same proportion, there are a number of combinations given.

No. 1. 75 per cent barley, 25 per cent oats, use 2¼ cups barley flour and ½ cup ground oats.

No. 2. 50 per cent buck wheat and 50 per cent oats, use ⅞ cup buck wheat and 1¼ cups ground oats.

No. 3. 75 per cent buck wheat and 25 per cent oats, use 1½ cups buck wheat and ½ cup ground oats.

No. 4. 50 per cent buck wheat, 50 per cent corn flour, use ¾ cup buck wheat and 1 cup corn flour.

No. 5. 75 per cent barley, 25 per cent corn, use 2¼ cups barley and ½ cup corn flour.

No. 6. 50 per cent rolled oats, 50 per cent corn flour, use 1⅛ cups ground rolled oats, 1 cup corn flour.

No. 7. 50 per cent buck wheat, 50 per cent barley, use ¾ cup buck wheat, 1½ cups barley flour.

No. 8. 50 per cent rice flour, 50 per cent buck wheat, use ⅞ cups rice flour and ⅞ cup buck wheat.

No. 9. 25 per cent rice flour and 75 per cent rolled oats, use ⅜ cups rice flour, 1¾ cups rolled oats. For a 50-50 combination use ⅞ cup rice flour and 1⅛ cups rolled oats.

No. 10. 25 per cent rice flour and 75 per cent barley, use ⅜ cup rice and 2¼ cups barley.

No. 11. 25 per cent buck wheat and 75 per cent corn flour, use ⅞ cups buck wheat and 1½ cups corn flour.

No. 12. 50 per cent corn flour and 50 per cent barley, use 1½ cups barley flour and 1 cup corn flour.

In the making of biscuits using the substitutes, the product is less like the normal wheat flour product than are the muffins, cakes or loaf breads. If one-fourth more liquid is used, a drop biscuit having better texture is the result. Sift dry materials, work in the fat well. Combine materials, handling lightly. Roll or pat ½ inch thick and cut as biscuits.

Barley Biscuits.

1¼ cups liquid.
4 cups barley flour.
3 tablespoons fat.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.

These biscuits do not get light and fluffy as wheat biscuits, but they are a desirable and edible product.

Corn Flour Biscuit.

1 cup liquid.
2 2-3 cups corn flour.
3 tablespoons fat.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.

Buck wheat, Corn Flour Biscuit.

1 cup liquid.
1¼ cups buckwheat.
1 1-3 cups corn flour.
3 tablespoons fat.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.

Corn Flour, Rolled Oats Biscuit.

1 cup liquid.
1 1-3 cups corn flour.
1 cup ground oats.
3 tablespoons fat.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.

Sponge cakes made of the substitutes are all very nice and light, texture and color good. Barley has a characteristic flavor, corn cake is especially tender. The extra lemon juice used with rice and corn seems necessary to improve the flavor.

Method of mixing sponge cakes.—Separate the yolks and whites, beat the yolks until thick, beat in the sugar and add the lemon juice. Fold in alternately the stiffly beaten whites and flour. Bake in an ungreased pan for 35 or 40 minutes.

Barley Sponge Cake.

1 1-3 cups barley flour.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1⅛ teaspoon salt.

Corn Flour Sponge Cake.

⅞ cup corn flour.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
⅛ teaspoon salt.

Oat Sponge Cake.

½ cup oat flour.
¼ cup corn flour.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Rice Flour Sponge Cake.

¾ cup rice flour.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Spice Cake.

½ cup fat.
2-3 cup sugar.
1 cup syrup.
3 eggs.
¾ cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon cloves.
1 teaspoon allspice.
2¾ cups barley flour.
1 cup raisins.

Cream the fat, sugar and egg yolk. Add the syrup and mix well. Add alternately the liquid and dry ingredients sifted together. Add the raisins and fold in the well beaten whites. Bake as a loaf for one hour in a moderate oven.

Instead of the raisins and barley flour 1⅛ cups rice flour and 1 cup buck wheat flour may be used in this spice cake.

Chocolate Cake.

½ cup fat.
2-3 cup sugar.
1 cup syrup.
3 eggs.
¾ cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
6 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
2 squares chocolate.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1½ cups ground rolled oats.
1⅞ cups barley flour.

Instead of the rolled oats and barley flour as given in the above recipe, 2 cups corn flour and ½ cup ground rolled oats may be used.

ALL KHAKI CLOTH TO ARMY

Olive Drab and Khaki, Consecrated to American Army, Will Not Be Available for Civilian Use

New York, May 31.—Olive drab and khaki-colored cloth will not be manufactured hereafter for civilian use, the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers announced after a meeting here. The restriction was decided on at the request of the war department, which pointed out that the olive drab and khaki have been consecrated to the use of United States troops and that the commercial use of the colors is improper.

Effort will be made to obtain the complete suspension of the manufacture of cloth of these colors from other textiles, it was announced, the association pledging itself to urge upon all manufacturers the propriety of such action.

It was explained that the decision will effect the Boy Scouts and all who have sought to make their styles of wearing apparel partake of the military mode.

Substitutes for wool in the form of cotton or reworked wool undoubtedly will be used in producing fabrics for civilian wear.

TWO MISSOURI WOMEN TO "BRING HOME THE BACON"

Marshall, Mo., May 31. — Two of Marshall's patriotic women are going to "bring home the bacon." The "bacon on the hoof" will be sold at a Red Cross sale.

Charles Gilpin, a wealthy farmer living four miles north, was asked to contribute something to a Red Cross sale.

He offered two hogs, provided some one came out and drove them in. And, as Mrs. James Walker and Miss Mollie Bruce had asked him to donate, he put the matter up to them.

The two women agreed, and the hogs will be driven in town and sold from the steps of the court house.

Guests Return to Homes.

J. C. Ballenger of Boardman, Ore., left Thursday evening for his home after a ten days visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ballenger. Mr. Ballenger came on account of the serious illness of his mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ballenger of Kansas City, who have been visiting Mr. Ballenger's parents, have returned to their home.

SUN ECLIPSES HERE JUNE 8

Maryville Will Be Shrouded In Darkness From 5:25 to 7:28 p. m.—Best Eclipse In 350 Years

An almost total eclipse of the sun will be visible in Maryville the evening of June 8 at exactly 6:29 p. m. Such a good occasion for viewing an eclipse of the sun will not present itself to the people of Maryville again in 350 years. On the above date at the time stated the moon will pass between the sun and the earth, obstructing for a short period, the sun light ray so that only a little more than one-tenth of the sun will be visible.

While partial eclipses of the sun are visible every few years, it takes many years for the path of an eclipse to swing around to any point on the earth's surface again.

People of Maryville will not have to turn on the lights or grope around in the darkness during the eclipse, as the eleven per cent of the sun left visible will furnish far more illumination than a full moon.

The moon's shadow will touch the earth first at a point in the Pacific, south of Japan. It will travel northeastward about 500 miles south of Alaska, then its course will turn southeastward, crossing the state of Washington, Denver, Colo., and leaving the United States from the coast of Florida.

The path caused by the shadow of the moon on the earth's surface will be fifty miles wide. The shadow will move at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour. Maryville is about 300 miles north of the main path of the shadow.

The eclipse, as it will be viewed here, will be visible first at 5:25 p. m., the middle or greatest extent of the eclipse coming at 6:29 p. m., and the shadow will be out of range at 7:28 p. m.

"The Cross Bearer."

The war's most thrilling story, that of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium and his ward, Liane de Merode, is superbly told in "The Cross Bearer," in which Montagu Love is seen at the Empire tonight in the powerful role of the world famous cardinal who has so staunchly set himself against the aggressions and oppressions of the German invaders.

The story tells of the love of Liane for Maurice Lambeaux and of the way that the cardinal contrives to secure the happiness of the two young people despite the treachery, intrigue and brutal force of the Germans. It is a story replete with exciting incidents. It is a story giving the opportunity for the biggest spectacular effects and, needless to say, each and every one of these opportunities has been seized and made the most of. The result is a perfect photoplay, a picture that grips your attention at the very start and holds it firmly until the close of the picture.

Major Keeler Coming.

Mrs. Mary Keeler received word this morning that her son, Major John P. Keeler, will arrive in Maryville Saturday morning for a very short visit. Major Keeler is stationed with the coast artillery at Fort Adams, Rhode Island.

WILL LEAVE FOR FRANCE SOON

Ray David Writes That Camp Lewis Men Expect Overseas Service

The following letter has been received by Mrs. S. T. Gile from Ray David:

"Camp Lewis, May 17, 1918.

"Dear Sister Anna:—I received your welcome letter yesterday. This leaves me fine and dandy and working hard. We have been on the target range for the last ten days and most of the nights. The captain told us this morning that we will leave for France within the next month. I had a furlough and was going back to Montana June 1, but it is all off now, unless they change the order.

"I had a letter from Walt the other day. He is enjoying his new home. I wish I could make you all a visit before I go over. I hear from Frank and Roy now. I hope I can find Roy when I land over there.

"Yes, I remember Rev. T. H. Wiles. We were good friends at college. I will write him some time, but I have so many letters to write. It would not be many letters for some people, but it seems like many to me.

"How are Tom and the children? I expect I would hardly know them now. I had a long letter from Lulu and Aunt Ella not long ago, the first for over a year. I haven't got those pictures from town yet. Will send one when I do.

"Write me soon. As ever, with love,

"RAY.

"Co. E, 362 Inf., Camp Lewis."

A SUCCESSFUL REMEDY.

All things succeed which really deserve to—which fill a real need, which prove their worth. The fact that the famous old root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has for three generations been relieving women of this country from the worst forms of female ills and has won such a strong place in our American homes proves its merit beyond the question of a doubt. It will well pay any woman who is in need of such a medicine to try it.

MUST GET FOOD HERE

UNITED STATES MUST SUPPLY REST OF WORLD

HOOVER MAKES APPEAL

Sees No Relief From Hog Prices—Reduced Cost of Distribution May Bring a Slight Reduction

New York, May 31.—The world duty of the United States is to build up its food resources so as to stand ready to any demand made by the Allies on this country, said Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover, in addressing a large gathering of farmers and dairymen at the National Exposition held at the Grand Central Palace.

"It is of no purpose to send millions of our best men to France if we fail to maintain the strength of their men, women and children on our lines of communication," he said. "After the war the time will come when we will need to replenish their herds from our own cattle, and we will need to supply the whole world. The United States is the last reservoir of men, the last reservoir of ships and the last reservoir of munitions and also the last reservoir of food upon which the allied world must depend if Germany is to be defeated and if we are to be free men.

Therefore it devolved on America, Mr. Hoover said, to maintain its present great potential strength in herds, which, if once lost, could not be re-established. He declared that not only must our herds be maintained as a guarantee to our allies, but they must be vital in the world's regeneration.

"The day may yet come when the child life of the whole world will be in your hands," he told the farmers and dairymen. "I place this before you on the high plane of service to the world. If we are to win we will win with four collateral weapons—men, munitions, ships and food. It may require years to win it, and we intend to fight it out on this line—not if it takes all summer, but if it takes all of your lifetime and mine.

"There falls, therefore, upon us an increasing duty to the provision of food. To provide supplies we must build up reserves. The first reserve in meat and dairy products is the maintenance of our herds. The second is to build up stocks in our warehouses in seasons of surplus production. If we can maintain our herds and our production we can in any emergency reduce the consumption of our own people without damaging our health — by margins of such an amount as will provide for the Allies.

"Our consumers need relief from the present high price levels of milk,' he added. "This relief may partly come through cheaper feeds, but it appears to me it must be in a larger degree in cost of distribution. It is a matter of vital importance to the health of the children of our poor. The enormous duplication and waste in present chaotic distribution methods need no detailed description from me. Here is a commodity in which, in New York, from forty per cent to sixty per cent of the price is absorbed in distribution. I can see but one remedy that will save the position between all of these vital interests, and that is complete reorganization of distribution methods. These are matters for local initiative. I do not believe in federal paternalism. The interest of the federal government in these matters must extend no further than assistance to remedy the evils of national character through the incidence of a national war. The inspiration of such reorganization must come from the producer. It might be said that the consumer should be joined in this. He should be, but I am despaired of any consumers organization getting results. The producers' whole interest is milk, while it is but one of many interests of the consumers."

Mr. Hoover said that he was convinced that if the war ended tomorrow the toll of actual starvation and its attendant diseases within the German lines would double or treble the 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 of men who have been actually killed by Germany and her allies in arms.

ASK ABOUT HIM.

If you are sick and have not been able to find relief for your ailment, make inquiries of your neighbors and friends regarding Dr. Prettyman's success in such cases.

He has been coming here for many years and his work has been productive of much good. Besides that, he is reliable, trustworthy and merits the reputation he has made.

Investigate him and then try him. He charges nothing for consultation and his charges are reasonable, if he treats you.

He will be at his office, at the Linville Hotel, Monday, June 3.

Rheumatism Back on the Job With its Old-time Fury

No Let-Up In Its Torture.

Pretty soon you will be reaching for the liniment bottle again, for the millions of little pain demons that cause Rheumatism are on the warpath. Winter weather seems to awaken them to renewed fury.

But your Rheumatism cannot be rubbed away, because liniments and lotions cannot reach the disease. It is in the blood, and only a remedy that goes deep down into the circulation, and routs out the disease germs, can rid you of this disabling disease.

S. S. S. has given some wonderful results in treating Rheumatism. Being a purely vegetable blood remedy, it purifies the blood of every germ, and thus removes the cause of Rheumatism. Get a bottle to-day at your drugstore, and start on the right treatment that will get results. Free advice about your case can be had by writing to Medical Director, 26 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.
